Candidates for the November General Election in the St. Croix district cast their lots today. See how it played out in this video. The St. Thomas-St. John district will redo the Senatorial and Board of Elections lots at noon Friday, because the box was missing four numbers, according to Elections Supervisor Caroline Fawkes. (Note: Most candidates in the St. Croix district were absent as they tasked their surrogates to pick their numbers). Above, Jevon Williams, Republican candidate for the St. Croix Board of Elections.
