The Department of Planning and Natural Resources announced its weekly beach advisory on Friday, making known that all the territory's beaches were safe for swimming and fishing this weekend, except Dorsch Beach in St. Croix, which did not meet standards considered safe. D.P.N.R. also said that it could not assure the status of Princess Condo Row beach because it did not have access to test it.

Otherwise, all the territory's waters have been cleared by the government agency.
