Fashion editor and stylist Danielle Hawkins is steadily becoming known as one of the industries go-to editors. The St. Croix native has navigated through the New York fashion scene for years and her reputation and eye for style has earned the respect of many. Her vision and flare for all that is stylish has led her to editorials in Vogue France to GQ Magazine, and her handwork has thrustured her on a path to becoming one of the most sought after young talents in New York.
