ST. THOMAS -- Employees and patrons of the Pony Parlor, which is located in Frenchtown, are reportedly unharmed after three males robbed the establishment at gun point on Wednesday, V.I.P.D. Media Specialist Sakeeda Freeman recently announced.

The 911 Emergency Call Center received a call from a citizen reporting the incident at approximately 10:12 p.m.

Officers at the scene made contact with the owner of the business who stated that his establishment had been robbed at about 9:30 p.m. According to the owner, three males, who Police Commissioner Delroy Richards told The Consortium this morning were Hispanic, entered the bar and pointed firearms at the employees, asking them for money. He said one of the males went behind the parlor, while the other two males kept their firearms pointed at the employees and the one patron at the bar. The male behind the bar proceeded to remove money and a money bag—containing an unknown amount of cash—from the cash register. The assailants reportedly exited the business fleeing in what appeared to be an SUV, according to Ms. Freeman.

The Criminal Investigation Bureau (C.I.B.) is currently investigating the matter. Anyone with information regarding this incident is asked to contact C.I.B. at 340-7742211 ext. 5579 and 5557.
