The polls are open territory-wide and Virgin Islanders are voting for the candidates of their choice in the Democratic primary election. Today's results will determine who in the Democratic field will proceed to the general election in the gubernatorial and senatorial races.

The Consortium will have live coverage from our brand new St. Croix studio along with live reaction from the Election System office on St. Croix, and the various gubernatorial headquarters as the results roll in.

The live broadcast will be carried on our main site along with our Facebook page. The coverage will be moderated by Ashley Scotland, who will be joined by other guests as they dissect the numbers and give their take on the results in real time. Coverage starts at 7:00 p.m.
