Legendary Reggae Artist Buju Banton held the second concert of his "Long Walk To Freedom" tour on Saturday, March 30 in Nassau, Bahamas. The megastar was jailed in federal prison for ten years after being found guilty of cocaine trafficking offenses in 2011. But since his release in December, the Grammy Award-winning artist's iconic status has skyrocketed. His first concert after being released was a sold-out affair in Jamaica, his native land; the Bahamas concert was a highly successful showing as well, and the Tortola event, which is set for June 15, is expected to be a sold-out show, too.
