Gov. Albert Bryan is moving toward openness in what his administration does on a day-to-day basis.

Government House announced Friday that the governor's Communications Director, Richard Motta Jr., will hold weekly press briefing to give Virgin Islands media regular opportunities to question the administration about news events.

The administration has also made public Mr. Bryan's schedule for the coming week.

Mr. Bryan campaigned, in part, on making government more transparent and keeping the public informed about what the administration is doing. He said on the campaign trail that his administration would be so transparent Virgin Islanders would get sick of it.
