

logo not found or type unknown

Woman Who Died in Frederiksted Shooting Was Caught in Crossfire and Was Not Target, Police Say. She Was 21.

Crime / Published On October 10, 2020 09:15 AM /

Staff Consortium October 10, 2020

Image not found or type unknown

Ambulance at the Juan F. Luis Hospital and Medical Center. By. VI CONSORTIUM

ST. CROIX — A young woman who was killed during a barrage of gunfire Friday night in Frederiksted was not the target of the shooting but was caught in the crossfire, V.I.P.D. Public Information Officer Toby Derima told the Consortium this morning, citing official details provided by detectives.

The woman, 21, identified by next of kin as Kadiyen Illidge of Sion Hill, was rushed to the hospital after the shooting on King Street, but did not survive.

"The woman that was killed was not the target; she got shot in crossfire," Mr. Derima said.

According to the 911 Emergency Call Center, the shooting occurred at about 10:18 p.m. The deceased victim was among five people who were shot last night, though the others were said to be in stable condition as of this morning, according to Mr. Derima.

(For all VI Consortium breaking news directly to your phone, download our app here.)

The latest homicide is the 41st territory-wide for 2020. The 39th homicide occurred in St. Thomas at Oswald Harris Court on September 13, followed by the 40th incident less than an hour later on the Melvin Evans Highway on St. Croix, where a 20-year-old woman was pursued by high-speed chase and was shot and killed.

© Viconsortium 2024