The Department of Planning and Natural Resources has announced that the Virgin Islands Council on the Arts has extended the deadline for the American Rescue Plan 2021 grant for art organizations. Applications are open here and will now be accepted until November 5.

This grant provides funding for Covid-related costs to established art organizations such as salary support, fees/stipends for contractual personnel, facilities costs such as rent and utilities, costs associated with health and safety supplies for staff, visitors, and audiences and costs associated with marketing and promotion, according to D.P.N.R.

Eligible art organizations must be in existence and active in the V.I. for a minimum of two years at the time of application, must have an active DUNS number registered on SAM.gov, must have current non-profit status registered in the office of the Lt. Governor, must submit an organization's W-9 form, must have a tax exemption identification number and must have submitted a final report form if previously funded by VICA, stated the release.
