The V.I. Department of Education has announced that its district leaders, in collaboration with school administrators, have modified class schedules to accommodate the management and scheduling needs of individual schools.

“Now that children are back on all of our school campuses and school administrators have had the opportunity to fully assess the day-to-day operations of their schools, the department is pleased to accommodate the requested changes in class scheduling so that we can better serve our children,” said Education Commissioner Racquel Berry-

Benjamin. "We want to remind the community that we are still responding to the Covid-19 pandemic and ask for your flexibility as we continue to educate our students."
