

The Virgin Islands Consortium

Dept. of Health Says it Will Begin Distribution of Covid-19 Incentive Cards Next Week

Community Center / Published On October 11, 2022 05:09 PM /

Staff Consortium October 11, 2022

The V.I. Dept. of Health announced Tuesday it has replenished its supply of Covid-19 Gift Incentive Cards and will be distributing them based on the contact information clients provided when vaccines were received earlier this year.

Card distribution will begin on Friday, October 14 with D.O.H. personnel reaching out to eligible recipients and advising them of the date and time to retrieve their card, according to the release.

D.O.H. reminded the public that the Community Health Clinics will distribute incentive cards to qualified persons from its April incentive program.

The Community Health Clinics will distribute the incentive cards on a scheduled basis and persons picking up their incentive cards are asked only to report on the day and time given when contacted by the D.O.H. staff. "You will need your vaccination card and proper identification when you arrive at your appointed time," the department said.

Health Commissioner Justa Encarnacion thanked the public for its patience and understanding as the department worked to replenish the incentive cards promised in April and for the cooperation in distributing them in an orderly manner.